

CHRISTMASS—LEWIS.

On Saturday, September 14, the Methodist Church, Maylands, was the scene of an extremely pretty and popular wedding, when Miss Ada Lewis, eldest daughter of the late Walter and Mrs Lewis, of Seventh Avenue, Maylands, was married to Mr George Edmund Christmass, eldest son of the late Mr. George Christmass and Mrs. H. H. Campbell, of Northam. As the Wesley Choir sang the hymn, "The Voice that Breathed O'er Eden," the bride entered the church on the arm of her grandfather, looking sweetly pretty in her bridal gown of cream silk, the bodice being made with the fichu style and draped with pearls, while the long court train fell gracefully from the waist, and the skirt was daintily tucked and finished with pearl hoarse-shoes. She wore the usual veil and coronet of orange blossom, and carried a shower bouquet of choice white flowers and fern. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Mabel Lewis, and Miss Alice Christmass as bridesmaids. Miss Mabel Lewis wore a dainty dress of cream crystal re made in tunic style, daintily trimmed with guipure lace and palette silk; a pale blue araphane hat completed her toilet. Miss Alice Christmass' dress was cream silk crepe, finished with bands of satin and lace; cream picture hat trimmed with blue araphane bows and wreathed with pink roses. Both bridesmaids carried pale pink bouquets, gifts of the bridegroom. The bridegroom was attended by Mr S. Nottage as best man, while Mr A. F. Lewis carried out the duties of groomsman. The ceremony was performed by the Rev Milton R. Maley. The service was purely choral, Miss Elsie Hall presided at the organ. The church was beautifully decorated by the friends of the bride. The bridegroom's present to the bride was a handsome gold bangle set with gold bangles set with garnets. The pearls, and to the bridesmaids pretty bride's present to the bridegroom was a set of gold sleeve links with initials inscribed. After the ceremony the guests were received in the Maylands Hall by Mrs Lewis and Mrs Campbell, about 70 guests sitting down to the breakfast, after which the usual toasts were honored. The bride and bridegroom left by the evening train for Mundaring, where the honeymoon was spent. The bride travelled in a frock of saxe blue resilda finished with bands of black satin and tiny buttons, and wore a large picture hat of biscuit shade. The wedding cake was made and decorated by Mrs K. F. Smith and Mrs H. Campbell. The presents were numerous and costly, amongst them being those received at a kitchen tea tendered the bride by her girl friends prior to her marriage
