WEDDING BELLS.

MINCHIN—SPENCER.

A very pretty wedding took place at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. J. Spencer, Queen's Park, on Monday, April 15, when Catherine, the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Spencer was married to Stuart Minchin, younger son of Mrs. Procter, "Oak Farm," Kendenup, and the late Lieut. J. H. Minchin, 51st. Battalion. The Rev. Griffin Smith, Rector at Queen's Park, was the officiating minister.

The girlish bride looked charming as she entered the lounge (which was beautifully decorated with roses), on the arm of her father, in her pretty frock of aqua-reil blue matona, fashioned with swathed bodice, relieved with diamante buttons and finishing with a small spray of orange blossom at the neck-line. The skirt had a number of small pleats down the front panel. Her white felt halo hat with a white veil worn off the face and with white gloves and shoes, and carrying a beautiful bouquet of white roses, carnations, white gladioli and little pom-pom dahlias and maidenhair fern fastened by long ends of white ribbon to which a small silver horse-shoe was attached, completed her bridal toilette. She was attended by Miss Bella Robinson as bridesmaid, who was dressed in a dainty frock of crushed strawberry coloured crepe made in tailored fashion and finished with a high neck line caught together at each side with small pearl ornaments. Her ruby pendant was the gift of the bridegroom. Wearing a black picture hat and black gloves and carrying a bouquet of red roses with fern, enclosed in a dainty tulle border completed her toilette. Mr. Donald Minchin (brother of the bridegroom) carried out the duties of best man.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, when relatives and close friends were received by Mrs. Spencer (mother of the bride) who was frocked in a dress of claret satin-backed crepe, relieved with gold trimmings and a large gold ornament at the neck, with black hat ornamented with touches of gold colour and wearing a dainty spray of cloth of gold rosebuds on her left shoulder.

Mrs. Procter (mother of the bridegroom) was dressed in a floral silk with trimmings of fawn coloured silk and relieved with three differently coloured acorns hanging in gold clasps, with fawn hat to match and trimmed with small flowers and ribbon and wearing a small spray of red rosebuds.

The tables looked very pretty with their floral decorations of cream and red roses, and maidenhair fern and the lovely 2-tier wedding cake (which was a gift from Mrs. Robinson, a friend of the bride) stood in the place of honour near the bride. The Rev. Smith acted as Master of Ceremonies.

After the delectable repast had been partaken of and the usual toasts honoured, and the many congratulatory telegrams read, the guests spent the rest of the evening in pleasant chat and social intercourse. Later in the evening the bride and bridegroom left by car, the bride travelling in a teal blue costume with white accessories. Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Minchin will make their future home in Kendenup.
